Down the Rabbit Hole

~ Activity Connection

January is a significant month for Alice in Wonderland enthusiasts. Lewis Carroll, born Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, entered the world on January 27, 1832, and passed away on January 14, 1898. His famous tale, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, began in 1862, during a boat trip where he entertained the Liddell children with an improvised story. Young Alice Liddell, the inspiration behind the heroine, urged Carroll to write it down. After two years of writing, the book was finished in 1864 and published the following year, quickly becoming a literary sensation.

The book introduced the world to memorable characters like the Mad Hatter, whose tea party never ends, and the grinning Cheshire Cat, who can disappear at will. Carroll even invented a new type of poetry, the "nonsense poem," one of the best examples of which is "Jabberwocky," which appears in Through the Looking-Glass, the sequel to Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

What makes Alice in Wonderland so fascinating is its mix of wordplay, logic, and fantasy. Carroll was not just a writer but also a mathematician, which explains the whimsical logic and puzzling riddles that fill the story. His love of paradoxes and mathematical theories shines through in scenes like the Mad Hatter's tea party and the Queen's curious rules for croquet. This blend of intellectual play and imaginative adventure is what makes Alice a timeless favorite for readers of all ages.

January is a perfect time to embrace the whimsical world of Alice in Wonderland. Lewis Carroll's beloved tale, now over 150 years old, continues to captivate readers of all ages. The story has inspired countless adaptations, including theater productions, ballets, and even video games, cementing its place in pop culture. This January, whether by rereading the book or exploring a new adaptation, it's worth revisiting Wonderland to marvel at the unique genius of Carroll and his enduring creation.

Known as the "Land of 10,000 Lakes," Minnesota has stellar landscapes, lively cities, and a sense of community that is hard to match. Whether it's the charm of a small town or the excitement of Minneapolis, life in Minnesota has something for everyone. The changing four seasons define daily life here—toasty summers for boating and fishing, vibrant autumns for crisp air walks through golden-leaved state parks, and blizzarding winters perfect for cozy indoor gatherings and outdoor fun. Living in Minnesota is a unique experience shaped by its natural beauty, delicious foods, and friendly atmosphere.

Minnesota Nice. Minnesotans, I've learned, are one of the nicest people I know. Minnesotans are known for their friendliness, politeness, and occasional "Uff da!" or "You betcha!" peppered into conversation. I've heard "duck, duck, gray duck" instead of "goose" and "pop" over "soda." My first winter in Minnesota, I parked my car in the wrong spot and got a huge pile of snow surrounding it. I couldn't back out so I started digging my car out with a small snow scraper. Within a couple minutes, two Minnesotan strangers brought their snow shovels and started helping me. I didn't even ask for help and they came to my rescue! That's when I realized Minnesota Nice is a real thing.

Minnesota's food culture is a fine blend of tradition and comfort. One of the most iconic dishes I learned about after moving to Minnesota was the infamous "hotdish," a hearty casserole made with meat, potatoes, vegetables, and a creamy sauce—perfect for the cold weather. It has quickly become my favorite MN dish. I even had it for my wedding meal. Lutefisk, lefse, and other Scandinavian favorites reflect the state's heritage, especially during the holidays. Belgium cookies from Ghent are a must during the holiday season too. I've noticed Minnesotans also love their sweet treats, like freshly fried State Fair mini donuts, Bundt cakes, and wild rice soup. Food connects people, bringing warmth and joy to the table.

From the North Shore to the Twin Cities, Minnesota is filled with favorite places to visit. Nature lovers enjoy the shores of Lake Superior, hiking in the many state parks, or enjoying a peaceful weekend at a cabin up north. On my to-do list is to go up north to Duluth and Lake Superior. The Twin Cities offer the Mall of America and world-class museums like the Minneapolis Institute of Art. For sports fan, cheering on the Minnesota Vikings or Twins is a favorite pastime. What is your favorite place to visit?

International Brainteaser Month

~ Activity Connection

January might be a challenging month. It is, after all, International Brainteaser Month. There are brainteasers for every taste. Wordsmiths enjoy crosswords, word jumbles, and acrostics. Mathematicians enjoy sudoku and kakuro. Riddles, logic puzzles, tangrams, ciphers, and even good old-fashioned Rubik's Cubes keep our minds sharp. Just as exercise is healthy for the body, brainteasers are healthy for the brain. Flex your gray matter by answering some of these brainteasers below:

1. A man stands on one side of a river, his dog on the other. The man calls his dog, who immediately crosses the river without getting wet and without using a bridge or a boat. How did the dog do it?
2. In 1990, a person is 15 years old. In 1995, that same person is 10 years old. How could this be?
3. Before Mount Everest was discovered, what was the highest mountain in the world?

Answers: 1. He walked; the river is frozen. 2. The person was born in 2005 BC. 3. Mount Everest; it was the highest mountain even before it was discovered.

ACROSS

4. First state park in MN
6. What type of trade became popular in the 1700s
9. One lake that is shared between only MN and Canada
10. MN official state fish

DOWN

1. What popular city is on Lake Superior
2. MN official state flower
3. MN has more than ___ lakes
5. What lake does MN, WI, MI and Canada share
7. MN official state bird

The Language of Touch

~ Activity Connection

The ingenious system of raised dots that are "read" through the fingertips by the blind is known as braille and is named for the Frenchman Louis Braille. As a student at the National Institute for Blind Youth in Paris, Braille loved to read and craved a wider variety of books. His mission was to create a new alphabet for the blind, and, at age 15, he developed braille. January 4, World Braille Day, celebrates his achievement and his birthday.

Braille based his alphabet on a secret military code developed by Captain Charles Barbier de la Serre for Napoleon's French army. This code of dots, known as écriture nocturne, or "night writing," was a way for soldiers to communicate silently and without a light at night. Barbier visited the Institute for Blind Youth in Paris to present his system. Braille quickly mastered Barbier's system, discovered its flaws, and developed his new system. When he presented his improvements to Barbier in person, the old army captain was incredulous and offended. History, however, has proven Braille's contribution to be as important as Gutenberg's printing press.
